Garden and Weather Report

Hello from the Gardens! The center picture is the tomatoes hardening off getting ready to plant and sell at our SPRING FLING which is this Friday, from 3:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. and again on Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. You can come to the gardens for a tour, come pick up plants that we will have for sale: Tomatoes; Peppers; Rosemary, Eggplant; Brussel Sprouts; Broccoli; Kale; Basil; Zucchini; Romaine Lettuce, Cucumbers and Romaine Lettuce.

We will also have some of the other items we typically have in the summer, like honey, dried herbs, Sasha's dressings, eggs, wheat flour, blueberries and jam. If you come for no other reason, come and pick up a pound of asparagus - it is to die for. We will limit everyone to 1 pound to make sure everybody gets a taste!

We are also opening up the basement larder to you which means, we will make available for sale all the canning we did over the winter which is our Red Sauce, and roasted San Marzanos.

It looks like the weather is going to cooperate, however, it is only Tuesday and lord knows how the forecast can change. Our plants for sale were all grown here with the exception of the Rosemary - it takes too long to grow and so I buy it wholesale for you.

Spring is here!

We will have some limited amounts on certain plants, so please come early for the best selection! Also, when the asparagus and rhubarb are gone - they are gone.

Now about the pictures below - Yikes! We did not receive more than 2.5 inches the last go around and look what it did to our beds and our yard. The ground is totally soaked so even though we only got about a 1/2 inch last night, we had standing water in the valleys again this morning. Last month I complained about the lack of sun, now I am going after the God of Heat! Where is here ? ? ? This is such a different spring, May feels like March and this year January felt like March. And, March is my least favorite month of the year so 3 in one year were way too many for me!

They have changed the forecast now from a warmer than usual May and June to colder than normal for the next 30 days. When you pick up your plants - please do not plant tomatoes, peppers, basil and the like until after the 20th this year. We may dig holes for tomatoes this weekend, but I am certainly not putting them in until the following week. I am looking forward to seeing you all this weekend! Happy Mother's Day to all you ladies.
